Red Devils Take Opening Game From Gaylord

WIN BY SCORE OF 5—2. PELLSTON HERE THIS THURSDAY.

Paced by the effective pitching and timely hitting of Ellwin Evans, senion lefthander, the East Jordan High School "Red Devils" opened their 1951 baseball campaign with a 5 to 2 trimuph over the Gaylord High School "Blue Devils" at Gaylord last Friday afternnon.

The Jordanites jumped into an early lead picking up a pair of tallies in the first frame; but were forced to stave off a threatening Gaylord uprising in the final stanza in order to win.

East Jordan picked up seven hits to Gaylord's five in a well played contest for so early in the season. Don Whiteford, Byran Boring, and Ellwin Evans contributed two hits apiece to the local cause. One of Evans' hits was a tremendous home run wallop with no one aboard in the top half of the fifth frame. Max Sommerville picked up the other Jordanite safety.

Ellwin Evans and Max Sommerville formed the winning battery with J. Flemming and Schreur toiling for the losers. Evans scattered five hits, walked 2, and struck out 10, in chalking up his first win this spring.

The locals are expected to open their home season here Thursday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. when they meet Pellston at the West Side Ball Park.

The annual membership campagaign for the Northern Michigan Community Concert Association will get underway next Monday evening, May 7th. At that time membership chairmen from the various northern Michigan communities will meet with the board of directors at a "kick-off" dinner at the Perry Hotel in Petoskey at 7 p.m. Mrs. Marion Ross of Battle Creek, the Community Concert representative, will meet with the group following the dinner to answer any questions they might have. May Is The Time

TO GET ONE'S CAR IN GOOD MECHANICAL CONDITION.

Motorists driving unsafe automobiles in East Jordan this month face arrest and fines, Chief Harry Simmons said yesterday.

Chief Harry Simmons announced stepped-up enforcement of the city's vehicle maintenance laws in support of the May traffic safety program of the Michigan State Safety Commission and the National Safety Council. Emphasis this month is directed toward promoting motor vehicle care as a means of reducing traffic accidents.

" All officers," Chief Harry Simmons said, "have been alerted to watch for obviously unsafe autos — especially those with out-of-focus lights or bad brakes.

Drivers of defective automobibes who become involved in accidents may be charged with violating the Traffic Law, he said.

Chief Harry Simmons pointed out that unsafe automobiles were a factor in 12 percent — or about 3,300 — of fatal traffic accidents in 1949. In some states, he reported, mechanically defective cars were factors in 19 percent of accidents involving deaths.

The law enforcements official further emphasizes the seriousness of the problem by reporting that "approximately one out of three cars on the nation's streets or highways has some obvious and hazardous defect."

Chief Harry Simmons urged every motorist in East Jordan to have his brakes, lights, steering mechanism and tires checked immediately. These are the mechanical features which are most dangerous if they are in poor condition, he said. Other safty equipment which should be inspected and replaced, if necessary, are rear and stop lights, windshield wipers, muffler, window glass, horn and rear-view mirror.

"May, which marks the beginning of vacations for many families and the observance of Memorial Day, is the logical time for getting one's car in good mechanical condition," the law enforcement official urged.

"Automobile owners who take precautions now are insuring a safe summer for themselves, their loved ones, and their neighbors."

Bride: "I made you a Lucifer cake today."

Groom: "What's that?"

Bride: "It started out to be an angle cake but it fell."

FARM FACTS from your County Agricultural Agent

Ed. Rebman, Co. Agr'l Agent

LETS PUT CONSERVATION ON THE LAND:

If you want to learn how conservation principles can be applied to your farm, plan now to attend the Michigan Conservation Field Days at Kingsley in Grand Traverse County, May 9 and 10 says Ed Rebman, County agr'l agent.

Last Year's program created great interest in conservation practices. Officials are hoping that several thousand people will attend this year.

Demonstrations will include a nursery showing pine trees grown from seed; land capabilities for tree growing; how natural tree reproduction can be encouraged; improvement methods for hardwood timber; swamp timber; forest diseases and insects; use of native trees; game management; fish and wildlife conservation; chemicals to aid in clearing land and controlling poison ivy; and use of good equipment in conservation.

Special emphasis will be placed on construction of laminated rafters and post treatment demonstrations by Michigan State College extension specialists.

The 620 acres of the Kingsley School Forest and the adjoining certified tree farm of Howard Dunn wil be the site for the field day. Tours on both days will start at 9:00 a.m. and continue through the day. Wagons will be furnished to transport visitors through the demonstration area.

Arthur Glidden, Grand Traverse county agricultural agent, who is cooperating with nearly 15 groups and agencies to put the field day on, reports the lunch will be available on the grounds during both tour days.

A special program will be held at the Kingsley High School auditorium on the evening of May 9 at 8:00 p.m. The Michigan United Conservation Clubs with Howard Barton, district president, will be in charge of the evening's program.

Farmers of Charlevoix County will learn many practices that can be transferred to their own farms, the agent believes.

General chairman for the event will be Harold Stinson, Grand Traverse county farmer. More than a dozen specialists from Michigan State College, the Michigan Deprtment of Conservation, and the soil Conservation Service, will be on hand to answer questions that farmers raise.

WALKER "QUICKIE" PLOTS PLANNED:

A series of soil building plots to increase the amount of organic matter in the soil has been planned for farmers in Charlevoix County according to Ed Rebman, county agr'l agent. This method of increasing the humus content was developed by Orville Walker, county agricultural agent of Kalkaska and Crowford Counties. Mr. Walker has a potato farm near Alba and he has used this method to increase the organic matter in order to increase his potato yields. Thus this method has been nick named the Walker "Quickie" method.

Briefly the plan is to sow rye in mid summer with a good application of fertilizer. This rye is turned down in the spring and buckwheat planted about corn planting time with a liberal application of fertilizer high in nitrogen. This buckwheat is disked into the soil when it is in the blossom stage. Rye is again sowed with an application o fertilizer and a regular crop planted the next spring. Farmers who wish to start a small plot would do so by planting buckwheat this spring.

The Extension Service would like to have a few of these plots in the entire county. They can be anywhere from ½ an acre to as large as a farmer wishes to go. For information regarding this, please contact the county agr'l agent at Boyne City.

MacArhur Given Hero's Welcome; Divided Nation Questions Issues

AN AROUSED NATION—No one event in the recent history of the United States has caused as much comment among the people on the Main Streets of the little towns and big towns of the nation as that of the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his commands in the far east. It was a shocked and angry nation that gathered on Main Street when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. It was a happy nation that demonstrated at the end of World War II. Bt it was a divided nation that questioned the removal of MacArthur!

New Commanders

Lt. Gen. Ridgway

Lt. Gen. Van Fleet

With the removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his commands in the Pacific, Lt. Gen. Ridgway has taken over MacArthur's posts in Tokyo. Lt. Gen. van Fleet assumed command of the 8th army in Korea, succeeding Ridgway.

The storm raged from grocery store to filling station, from hardware store to the courthouse. Indignation, sorrow, righteousness, worry, fear and hysteria found their way into the controversy.

The issues of civil power vs military, Europe vs Asia, the personality of MacArthur vs Truman, politics vs statecraft, all entered into the story. For a week it was violent and then the general came home for the first time in 14 years to the acclaim of a grateful and sentimental nation.

But by now the first shock and anger of the President's action had given way to considerable sober thinking. For the first time the people of Main Street got a look through the fog of personal grudges and politics at some of the deeper issues. Although it was a divided nation still, hysteria was abating. There was still confusion, but the people along Main Street were calmer.

And many of them realized that they had witnessed a turning point in history. Whether it would be for the best interests of the country and the world they could not decide—only time would tell.

THE WORLD— Although at first glance it seems a long way from the Main Streets of the small towns of the nation to Europe and Asia, the majority of the hometowners today realize we live in "one world," and for that reason they were listening to what others had to say about the MacArthur-Truman controversy.

This is some of the reaction abroad: London—" . . . His (MacArthur) removal was accepted as an augury of peace"; Paris—"The French feel that his dismissal means less chance of total war . . ."; Bonn—"Most Germans believe that at worst General MacArthur's impulsiveness would involve the United States in a general war."

THE PRESS— Back of the national scene the home town press took a more temperate view of the incident than expressed by the thousands of telegrams that were received by senators and congressmen. The home town editors were concerned about constitutional rights and which is more important to world peace, Asia, as believed by MacArthur, or Europe, as believed by Truman.

A survey of 78 leading newspapers in the daily field showed this division of opinion: Truman right, 38; Truman wrong 26; neutral, 14. The daily press, too, was deeply concerned over issues concealed in the first blast of tempers.

THE CONGRESS—And while the Truman-MacArthur controversy raged along the Main Streets of the nation, the debate reached the boiling point in the house and senate. It can be said with all truthfulness that the dispute reached the stage where those two bodies of men, representing the people of the United States, stripped themselves of what little dignity remained after three years of battling over domestic and foreign issues.

The debate, for the most part, was along party lines with the Republicans backing MacArthur and the Democrats plugging the President. Both sides hurled the label of "war party" at the other. There were indications, however, that the two parties might get together for a sweeping investigation of the administration's far eastern policy.

ANOTHER LONG WAIT—While the nation talked of the Truman-MacArthur controversy, the house passed its version of a draft bill. But the mothers and fathers in the small towns of the nation appear in for another long wait before they learn the fate of their sons.

The measure now goes to a house-senate conference committee that has the senate version of a draft. The conferees face a long and hard struggle to work out a compromise. Long-range training features of the two measures pose the greatest obstacle to quick agreement. There are, however, numerous other conflicts that will require time to adjust.

At the moment it appears very likely that a compromise bill might not become law much before July 9, the expiration date of the present selective service act.

FARM MACHINERY OUTPUT—The long-awaited cutback in farm equipment output is expected during the next three months, industry spokesmen reported, with production of about 75 per cent of the industry's capacity. Production of farm tractors for the first quarter of this year was higher than in 1950, but material shortages are expected to reduce schedules.

From January through March, 152,260 farm tractors were produced. In the corresponding months of 1950 the total was 147,972 units. The increase was attributed to use of materials stockpiled during last fall's strikes. Accumulated materials have been used up, however, and manufacturers are having difficulty securing quantities to keep pace with production schedules.

DEFENSE JOBS GO BEGGING—The people of the home towns of the nation are not rushing into defense jobs as fast as some government agencies desire.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the bureau of employment security, reported that 50,000 unfilled jobs clog the rolls of state employment offices as the nation's defense program shifts into second gear.

The unfilled jobs are for workers in professional, managerial, skilled, service, clerical and sales, semiskilled, and unskilled fields. Thirty-six states reported openings.

DECISION SOON— Since March 5, when deputies of Great Britain, France, Russia, and the United States began meetings in Paris in hope of agreeing on an agenda for another foreign ministers' conference, the people in the home towns of America have waited patiently for an announcement that perhaps the big four could get together.

A decision should be reached any day now and the democratic nations believe the Soviet Union will agree to the conference. U.S. diplomats believe the Russians will agree for three reasons: (1) To stall, or at least put a brake on the accelerated defense programs of the free nations of the Atlantic alliance; (2) To exploit and widen whatever difference may still exist among the western powers and to divide them on important policy issues, if possible; and (3) To use the proposed conference, bound to be one of the most widely reported events in recent history, as an organ of propaganda for Soviet "peace aims."

FARM SECURITY TAXES

First Farm Social Security Report Due

The first social security tax and information returns for farm and household employees, together with payment of taxes, was due on or before April 30.

The social security tax and information return covers the quarterly period of January, February, and March, 1951. The farm and household employees involved those who were brought into the federal old-age and survivors insurance system on January 1.

Whether or not a farm or household employee's wages are subject to the taxes depends on the number of days worked for the employer and the amount of cash earnings. If in doubt concerning taxes due, farmers are urged to see the nearest internal revenue collector at once.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

BY...DREW PEARSON

The Midnight Statement

IT WAS not until about 11:15 Tuesday night that President Truman actually decided to issue his 1 a.m. statement firing General MacArthur.

The decision to make this momentous step had already been taken, but the timing was set for Friday, not Tuesday midnight. And the reason for the sudden nocturnal press announcement was a telephone call from Secretary of the Army Pace in Tokyo tipping off Truman that MacArthur planned to jump the gun and get out his own statement first.

The President was still smarting from an incident around March 24 when MacArthur had jumped the gun on him, so naturally he was leery. He had sent MacArthur a policy statement for his perusal and personal reaction—a policy which the White House planned to announce as a peace feeler to China. But MacArthur, without notifying Washington, issued the statement himself.

So when Secretary Pace called from Tokyo Tuesday night intimating that MacArthur might rush into print again, the President called Secretary of State Acheson and Deputy Undersecretary Dean Rusk to the White House where they prepared the MacArthur press release.

Prior to that, late on Monday afternoon the joint chiefs of staff held a highly secret session at which there was unanimous sentiment that MacArthur must go.

Bradley Gets Hot

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and a most mild-mannered man, was hottest under the collar against MacArthur.

Adm. Forrest Sherman, chief of naval operations, and reported by some as favoring MacArthur's strategy against China, actually threw his weight behind Bradley. Though MacArthur's tactics included a naval operation against China, Admiral Sherman argued that we can't afford to get involved in a war with China, and that if you go into China just a little bit—as in bombing bases—you have to be ready to go in all the way.

Only military man who dragged his feet on MacArthur's ouster was Secretary of Defense Marshall, who has known MacArthur a long time, is 70 years old against MacArthur's 71, and who was in France as a World War I captain when MacArthur was a brigadier general.

Ridgway Can Hold

One highly significant exchange of information made between the pentagon and Lieut. Gen Matthew Ridgway in Tokyo was a cable from Ridgway stating that no matter what happened, his troops could hold out for 60 days. Regardless of what was thrown at him, Ridgway informed the joint chiefs of staff, he could hold for two months.

This cable was in reply to White House fears that following MacArthur's removal, there might be a Chinese attack and a series of American defeats for which Truman, having removed the supreme commander, would get the blame.

Humble Harry

President Truman's usual peppery remarks have not been in evidence during the MacArthur controversy—not even to his personal advisers. The nearest he came to pepper was at last week's cabinet meeting, just after ex-speaker Joe Martin released the MacArthur letter.

"It's time to show the MacArthurs, the Time-Life people and the Scripps-Howard newspapers who is running American foreign policy," he observed tartly.

Day after MacArthur was relieved, however, Truman received a call from ex-congressman Maury Maverick of Texas, who congratulated him.

"What you have done will make sure that my grandchildren will be free and that civilian government will continue in the United States," Maverick said.

The President was neither cocky nor apologetic. He looked a little sad, as if he had made a terrifically hard decision and knew that a terrible storm was going to break over his head.

"Thank you, Maury," he replied. And he wept just a little. "I do my best. I have to follow the constitution."

Rayburn's Ghost Troops

What Speaker Sam Rayburn had in mind when he told congress that "non-Chinese" troops were in Manchuria, was not Russian troops, but four divisions of Russian-trained Japanese troops . . . there has long been a small contingent of Russian troops in Manchuria used for purposes of turning Russian equipment over to the Chinese. But there have never been any Russian combat troops in Manchuria. Much more dangerous are the Red divisions massed around Siberia.

Nearly 250,000 Legal-Size Trout Now Planted

Already releasing nearly 200,000 legal-size trout, conservation department fishery crews expect to have planted a total of 250,000 "keepers" by the time trout season is underway.

Preseason planting goal in recent years has been 200,00 trout, seven inches or more in size.

Northern lower peninsula plantings recorded so far include over 30,000 brook, 70,500 brown, nearly 21,000 rainbow and 19,000 lake trout. Upper peninsula waters have received 19,450 brook, 7,800 brown and 11,200 rainbow trout. In waters in the southern third of the state, crews have planted 9,900 brook, 3,700 brown and 4,900 rainbow trout.

Fishery workers also have released 122,500 brook fingerlings and nearly 40,000 sub-legal rainbows in the two lower peninsula regions.

Michigan State College homeeconomists say that as traffic lanes begin to show on waxed floors, they may be either cleaned with a commercial floor cleaner or the worn spots may be refinished.

High temperature toughens even the tenderest meat. In cooking stews corned beef, ham shank and other meats requiring moist heat, keep the water just below the boiling point—or a simmering tmperature.

AN APPRECIATION

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the many friends, neighbors and relitives for the many letters, cards, and plants, during my illness and stay at Charlevoix Hospital. Also the Preachers who visited me and prayers that was offered for me in the different churches. Many Thanks again.

HOME DEMONSTRATION WEEK SALUTES YEAR'S PROJECT ACHIEVEMENT

Each county in Michigan carried on a home economics extension program during 1951 and the results of these projects are being saluted during National Home Demonstration Week, April 29—May 5.

"It has been a year of many significant accomplishments," say home economics personnell at Michigan State College who assist in conducting the program. Aid of extension specialists and home demonstration agents has enabled local club leaders to bring homemaking aids to more than 39,000 members through the state.

Among the 49 different topics requested from the home economics extension specialists' staff were pattern alteration; dressmaking; remodeling clothes; selecting the right ensemble; cleaning rugs, upholstery, walls and floors; improving storage space; and good buymanship of large equipment such as home freezers and refrigerators. Other home improvement topics were how to improve livablity through good furniture arrangement; how to improve the lighting in the home; living together in the family; adolescent adjustment; new usesforMichigan fruits; and meals for the middle years.

Out of these lessons, the women reported trying out 212,565 ideas or improved practices.

The MSC home economics extension staff promotes these new developments through leader training meetings, special interest meetings, radio talks, and news stories.

The county home demonstration agent aid in the county program by training local group leaders and aiding clubs with their projects.

National Home Demonstration week, now being celebrated, is a salute to the women throughout the nation who are bettering their homes and helping their families by new techniques learned through the home demonstration work sponsored by their state Land Grant College.

What is the real menance of sleeping pills? In The American Weekly, the great color magazine, distributed with Sunday's Chicago Hearld-American, read "Slaves of the Sleeping Pills," learn why sleeping pill addicts are doomed to subjugation that is as deep as that of alcoholism and as shattering as the confirmed use of morphine! Don't miss this eye-opening story Sunday in The Chicago Hearld-American's great color magazine!

New Cream Test Used In State

The new acidity test for cream adopted recently in Michigan, is now in operation, says Don Murray, Michigan State College extension dairyman.

The program was proposed several months ago by cream producers and creamery operators as a method of assuring high quality butter for the market.

Murray suggests that cream producers watch this test performed at the creamery. Now that warmer weather is here, there wil be greater chance for sourness o racidity in cream and the impirtance of the test will become more apparent.

The test rjeects cream that exceeds 0.8 of one percent acidity. To avoid rejection, Murray suggests you do these things: Keep the separators and utensils clean; keep cream covered and stored t a temerature below 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Deliver the cream to market at least every three or four days.

The keynote to success with garnishings is to keep the garnish looking natural. A little trimming can make the simpliest dish more enticing and appetite appealing.

To serve good meals, it is wise to think through the planning for several days—preferably a week at a time, say MSC home economists.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY

History Shows That the Symptoms Underlying MacArthur's Dismissal Have Existed for Many Centuries

By W. P. SCHOENTGEN
WNU Managing Editor

There is a kind of universality about Douglas MacArthur that communicates itself to many men, something of the same stuff that leads nearly everyone to believe in his own heart that he can run a newspaper and play Hamlet with a deathless genius.

Was MacArthur right or wrong in his belief in the strategic priority of Asia, the bombing of Manchuria, the ultilization of Chinese Nationalist forces?

Did he, in his public and private rejection of administration and United Nations policies in the Far East, express a subconscious desire to achieve "martyrdom" for his principles?

Did President Truman take the right action but at the wrong time in relieving MacArthur of his multiple command?

It doesn't make any difference who you are — you undoubtedly have your own strong, definite and perhaps impassioned answer to each of those questions. And according to your answers, you align yourself on one side or the other of the MacArthur controversy—the great American schism of 1951.

It is a basic division, a schism of the soul and spirit; and the rock upon which the split has occurred is a military man, a soldier, yea, even a 71-year-old general.

Military Men's Drama

That in itself is not unusual. It is, in point of fact, a fairly sound historical tradition that great epochs of man's development are likely to turn upon the personality of a military leader, probably because it is easy for the public to focus its attention upon a man who can be identified with the drama of danger and physical action, and with the glamour of military triumphs.

General MacArthur follows vigorously in that tradition. It has been his peculiar destiny to help lead this nation in smiting tyranny both right and left within the past decade, striking to the right at Japanese imperialism in World War II and to the left at Communist efforts at domination in Korea and the Far East.

Thus he has become a political symbol, having stood at the spearhead of America's often inept and fumbling but always intense desire for peace that patently will not be had for the asking but which may come if we fight hard enough for it.

Whether the principles he has advocated are right or wrong, it is MacArthur the symbol, not MacArthur the man, around which the very real, very basic foreign policy quarrel has gathered.

From that point of view, the MacArthur controversy is an old and elemental form of domestic strife that has occurred and recurred within this or that national community ever since man has ben able to formulate and defend an opinion.

Without attempting to make any invidious comparisons, a number of historic parallels to the MacArthur case become apparent from a quick glance at the records.

There is a superficial resemblance, for instance, between the firing of MacArthur by President Truman and Calvin Coolidge's dismissal of the late General "Billy" Mitchell for defying orders. Mr. Coolidge made it clear, however, that he was in sympathy with the cause of aviation which Mitchell was personifying. But he also made it plain that, sympathy or no sympathy, he could not overlook the insubordination of which General Mitchell was found guilty.

An Assist to Air Power

The violent closing of Billy Mitchell's career, we know now, marked the turning point of the controversy over the future of military aviation, and the pioneering general did much to advance U.S. air power to the mighty peak it reached in time to help win World War II.

Whether time and events will vindicate General MacArthur's ideas as fully as they have those of General Mitchell is anybody's guess.

One of the abiding characteristics of many powerful and successful military leaders in the past has been their capacity to capture the imagination and sympathy of the people and carry them along a chosen course—to a point, at least.

This makes for power and authority. And the possession of broad authority is like having a permit to carry a pistol. Keep it in the holster and depend upon its presence there to control circumstances, and chances are you won't get into trouble. The danger of carrying a gun lies in the possibility that sooner or later you might start firing it indiscriminately and a lot of people will get hurt, including yourself.

Julius Caesar, an overwhelming military and political genius, amassed for Rome and for himself a great reservoir of power which he was able to exercise pretty much at will. But there were those who felt he had too much power; they mistrusted it, feared that Caesar might mis-use it.

Julius Caesar

No single man or group of men were strong enough to fire or depose the ruler by legal means. So Brutus and Cassius plotted, and on a day in March, Caesar, powerful and unsuspecting, walked up the steps of the Capitol to meet the knives of his assassins.

Controversy, Then, Too

That stirred up a great civil controversy in Rome, too. Was Caesar right in his principles and policies concerning the Roman empire, or were the men who deposed him by liquidating him right? It might be argued that Rome, under Caesar, reached its peak of dynamic expansion and that its decline began after Caesar's death in 44 B.C. But regardless of the truth of that position, the split over the aims and policies of Julius Caesar marked an epochal turning point in the history of the Roman empire.

Scotland's immortal Robert Bruce was the storm center of a raging controversy much of his life, while he held to and fought for his ideal of a free and independent nation. He settled that issue himself, however, by decisively defeating the English forces under Edward II at the battle of Bannockburn in June, 1314, and assuring the continuance of Scotland as an independent kingdom.

Every student of American history knows of the quarrels and differences of opinion that flared after President Abraham Lincoln put General Grant in charge of the Union armies. Some members of Lincoln's own cabinet not only refused to support but actively opposed Grant's appointment.

It was, in a sense, a MacArthur situation in reverse.

Grant's Problem

And when Grant took command in March, 1864, he found he had to fight not only the enemy but the torpor and passivity of his own generals in the field. The military issue at stake that time was whether or not Meade, Hooker, McClellan and others in the string of Union generals were right in fighting a defensive war, avoiding battles wherever possible, and choosing more often to retreat than to fight.

General Grant

Grant favored action and offensive contact with the Confederate armies. Over the protestations of his subordinates, he decided to attack wherever possible and carry the war to the enemy.

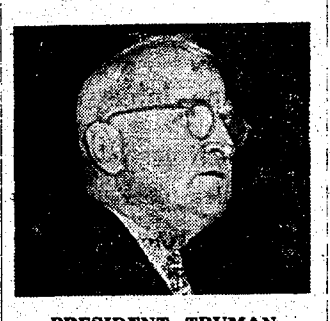

The ultimate surrender of General Lee and the Army of Northern Virginia at Appomattox proved the rightness of Grant's strategy. But Grant, who went on to become President of the United States, albeit not an especially popular one, remained the center of a maelstrom of violent opinions all his life.

So the MacArthur story is by no means a new one. Call his actions and utterances in Korea insubordination, or call them an honorable defense of his own principles, they have basic meaning for us as a dramatic illustration of the grim fact that the United States has to choose between two basic and different courses in this battle against the evils of communism.

he went his own way

One way is going to be right, the other wrong. We say that the nation, in its collective mind, has split over the issue of which is the best way to deal with Communist aggression in the Far East.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN
he lowered the boom

But it is not, it cannot be, a fatal split. The doubt that has been lurking behind—our thinking and our attitude on the question of how best to fight the monstrosity of world communism has been brought plainly into the open and is clearly defined.

There is no longer any reason for anyone—be he statesman, military man, farmer, storekeeper or factory worker—to deny the existence of that doubt. Now it can be talked about and it can be eliminated.

That is the great service that President Truman and General MacArthur have unwittingly performed for the nation and the free world. They have managed to get all the cards on the table.

The answer, still to be found, is there somewhere.

MacArthur's Father Had Troubles, Too

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's father, Gen. Arthur MacArthur, embroiled himself in a bitter dispute with civilian authorities 50 years ago when he was military governor of the Philippine Islands, which the U.S. had just acquired from Spain.

William Howard Taft arrived in the islands as head of a presidential commission charged with establishing a civilian government in the Philippines.

Although President William McKinley was under heavy pressure in Washington to establish a civilian government as soon as possible, Arthur MacArthur's command took the point of view that only the army could do a proper job of restoring order and control.

When Taft arrived, MacArthur coldly refused to see him.

What Is Greatness?

Lesson for May 6, 1951

WHAT is a great man? Some men have been called great who were not so; they were only prominent. Hitler, for example, was certainly prominent enough; but he was not great. Men can truly be called great for various good reasons. Some may be artists, some may be soldiers, others statesmen or prophets. Once in a while a man is born who is great in more ways than one.

David the Ideal King

SUCH a man was David, King of Israel and one of the world's most famous men. The United Kingdom of Israel had a short history, only three kings reigning over it—Saul, David and Solomon. Of the three, David was by all odds the greatest man and greatest king.

Neither Saul nor Solomon was capable of holding for a lifetime to a high ideal. Neither was capable of whole-hearted devotion to God. Neither one could gain and hold the loyalty of the nation.

It was only David who could do these things. It is no accident that forever after, when a Hebrew thought of the ideal king, he would think neither of Israel's first king nor of the wealthiest, but of David the best and most beloved.

Military Genius

DAVID was great, in part because of his power in battle. What no one since Joshua had been able to do, David did: he welded the quarreling, jealous, weak tribes of Israel into a "single sword." The times called for military genius, and David had it. He gave Israel the military might that was essential for their peace and prosperity.

So, often since David's time, there have been great soldiers who have used their military genius not for conquest in itself but in order to win some place in the sun for peace-loving nations. One thinks of Charles Martel, who saved Europe from barbarian conquest; of William of Orange who set the Dutch free from Spanish tyranny; of Washington, "father" of a great nation; and of many others.

The great soldiers of history have been more than professionally skilled and successful killers of men; they have been like David, men whose skill was used to preserve nations, not to destroy them.

Lovable Leadership

IN OUR times Hitler brought the word "Leader" under a shadow, because his leadership was in the wrong direction. But there is such a thing as noble and wise leadership, and David had this quality in a high degree.

It is true, success has something to do with it. Men will flock to a winner who would have nothing to do with him if he were a loser. But still it is a fact that most of the world's great leaders who have come up from obscurity, as David did, have arisen at the head of groups of devoted men who have followed them loyally through the darkest times.

So it was with David. During his years as leader of the "underground" (literally so, since for some time his headquarters were in a great limestone cave), he developed the hard core of the army he commanded at a later time, a core of men who would rather lose with David than win against him.

Leader in Faith

DAVID had yet another quality of greatness, and for this he is perhaps best remembered. He was a man of deep religion. But religion for him was not merely a personal matter; he carried his faith into public life, he made his faith contagious. He did his best to make faith in God central, as it had never been, in the life of his nation.

Religion for him was not a stick with which to beat other people about the head, but a rod and staff to lean upon. It was not a secret locked in his own heart but something he desired to share with all his people. It was not a device to keep his subjects contented; it was an acid test for his own life.

And though he sometimes slipped and terribly fell, he could always rise again, for his religion gave him that rarest of all qualities in great men: humility before God and man.

Dusting Process Developed at M. S. C. Highly Efficient

The age-old problem of getting more insecticides and fungicides to cling to the plant for protection against bugs and disease may have been solved by a Michigan State College graduate student.

By highly charging the dust particles as they leave the dusting nozzle, as much as 500 to 1,000 percent better coverage on plants has been obtained in laboratory experiments.

Henry D. Bowen, Adrian graduate assistant in agr'l engineering and World War II veteran, developed the idea which will be tried under field conditions for the first time this summer. Dr. Walter M. Carleton, MSC agr'l engineering professor under whom Bowen has worked, believes attachments for modern commercial four-row dusters can be made at a cost of not more than $300.

The tractor battery system with a dynamotor providing a 12,000 to 20,000 volt direct current power supply is needed. This is about the same voltage carried by an electric fence and is even less dangerous because of low wattage. A thin wire, carrying this high voltage, at the nozzle of the duster charges the particles as they emerge from the blower pipes. Insecticide and fungicide dusts hold this charge for several seconds. Plants set up an opposite charge and like a magnet, draw the dust particles to under sides of leaves as well as the topside. Tests show as much as 11 times greater coverage obtained at a distance of 4 feet from nozzle.

Many farmers would prefer dusting to spraying because of labor costs and water supplies. If proven under wield conditions the finding in Michigan State's new agriculture engineering research labortory may revolutionize the process of getting insecticides and fungicides on fruit trees, garden crops and farm crops.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Michigan Democrats are stunned at the appointment of Blair Moody, Washington news correspondent, by Governor G. Mennen Williams, to fill the late Senator Vandenberg's seat. Most of them had not even heard of the man who for 18 years had paid only occasional visits to his home state.

In his formal statement, Moody said, "We must be strong, as strong as we can make ourselves—." In the same breath he warned against inflation—"impelled by the very process of making ourselves strong."

Republicans remained. Politically he is an unknown quantity. Senator Homer Ferguson said carefully that, he is a personal friend of Moody's but that they often had "differed politically".

And while the MacArthur controversy rages up and down the nation, selective service boards are in a tizzy. The draft quotas have been cut—again—the Reds' break through may jump the quotas—again—and now doctors —again—are on the draft list.

Speaking before the Military Order of Foreign Wars convention in Lansing, Tyrone Gillespie, security director for the Dow Chemical company, Midland, lashed out saying, "the MacArthur incident—will force the state department and president to announce our global policy, if any".

Civilian defense plans go ahead. Now the civilian defense council battles for bottles for blood. Says director, Brig. Gen. Lester J. Maitland, "we are spending the $500,000 given us last year to obtain the blood types. It will be waste of money if we don't have bottles in which to keep the blood." National production of the containers is rapidly being gobbled up.

Meanwhile a regional civilian defense official says of the mock raid on the Soo: The populace responded to the sirens like veterans of a London blitz. Nowhere was seen signs of panic or indifference." They knew it was coming.

The "little Hover" commission has attacked Michigan's red tape. The body has spoken, if vaguely, of a claimed saving of $114,790 already in the five departments studied.

Michigan Bell Telephone asks a $22,000,000 rate increase "to meet operating costs" John H. McCarthy of the state public service commission, says: "Michigan Bell earned 6.25 percent on its investment in 1950—highest rate of return for any utility in the state."

Capitol punishment again has been refused in Michigan. For the 26th time since 1846 when the death penalty was abolished, the legislature turned down the proposal.

The Michigan State Library wants its books back—15,000 of them. That number still is outstanding on loan since the state office building fire February 2.

Frank G. Millard, attorney general, says the federal constitution would not be violated by the proposed amendment to the state constitution providing for dismissal of a public official who refuses to testfy about his official actions.

SECOND Grade — Cora Seiler

Sharon Pinney found a tiny turtle in her yard and brought it to school for a day.

All of us went for a walk on Mrs. Seilers birthday. It was a nice sunny day. We saw flowers spdinging up in the yards. We stopped to watch Mr. Martinek's goat. Then we had our birthday treat.

We went over to see the 4-H evhibits in the gym. There were so many pretty things that the boys and girls wished they could be in 4-H.

This week Mrs. Seiler is reading the book Heidi by Johanna Spyri. It is a delightful story about a little girl who went to live with her grandfather in the mountains in Switzerland.

The children have brought baquets of daffodils, trillium spring beauties, adder tongues and girls. Our room looks like a flower show.

We play games at recess. The boys play baseball and the girls play singing games.

PLAY AWAY FROM TRAFFIC!

In May kids swarm over playgrounds, vacant lots and back yards, busy with football, softball, run-sheep-run and marbles. Too many youngsters, accidents records show, resort to playing on suburban streets where death can enter the game. With 1951 traffic already seriously up over 1950, Automobile Club of Michigan has distributed 6,100 of the above "Play Away From Traffic" posters to Michigan schools for bulletin board use. Some 25,000 safty lesson sheets, stressing the "play away from traffic" theme, were also given Michigan school teachers for classroom use during May.

Music teacher: "What is the difference between an English horn and a French horn?"

Student: "The French horn has a dialect."

Boys, mighty soon now we'll be steppin' quietly along the stream banks, a-swingin' our lures to the lairs of tail-slashing speckled trout. How hard one of those giant brown, brown, rainbow, or cutthroat horsepowered rascals will tug, and race, and fight! What a battle he'll wage on a light bamboo or glass rod!

Yes, fellows, that's just what we need for this season — a new bait or fly rod with suitable reel and line to match the husky fish of brook streams. What say we drop into the local sporting goods store today and check up on our needs, and look over the new tackle on display?

There's an ideal "sportsman's rod" that comes in six lengths, made from flame finish tonkin bamboo. It's just right for bait or fly fishing in medium-wide, bushy streams. The sections are 17 inches in length, so the rod will fit in any pack basket, or can be carried in the pocket of a fishing jacket.

Then we find an all-purpose combination Black River rod of four pieces that sure fills the bill for all kinds of fishing. You can fit it together so that it makes two fly rods 8½ feet long and 6½ feet long, one bait rod 8½ feet in length, light casting rod 6½ feet long, or two casting or trolling rods 5½ and 3 feet in length.

Those of us who fish in the South will find this rod excellent for taking bass and panfish of all kinds. It's strong, limber, light . . . and ready to handle any situation.

This spring you'll see Old Hi whippin' the waters with one of the newly developed tubular glass fly rods. They're honeys! And the toughest rods, under ordinary usage, you've ever tested on a bucking trout, salmon, or bass. I'll use a two-piece silver lake wet fly action tubular glass fly rod 8½ feet long that weighs about 6 ounces.

I've also got my eye on a two-piece goldenrod tubular glass spinning rod 7 feet long. Old Hi plans to try some of the large, deep pools that are hard to reach with regular fly tackle under bushy conditions — and there's where the lunkers hide! Spinning will fetch 'em out. Better get yourself one of these new glass spinning rods . . . and have more fun with the huge trout.

For the bait rod you'll want a top flight level-wind casting reel of 100 yard line capacity, and a spool of hi-test braided silk line of 9 or 12 pound test. For the fly rod get an automatic reel holding 50 yards of dry flite size H or G level nylon fly line. And to the glass spinning rod attach a Bracco spinning reel of large capacity, to hold 100 yards of 6 or 8 pound test skirr hard braided nylon spinning line.

By sending a penny postcard to Old Hi, in care of this newspaper, and asking for your free copies of the booklets "Fishing For The Millions," "Salt Water Sports Fishing," or "Pacific Coastal Fishing," you'll read how to use this tackle to the best advantage.

Boston Baked Beans Served With Molasses Distinction

Come Saturday night, many a New England household sits to a repast of appetizing, molasses-sweetened baked beans plus brown bread. Since to savor these two foods is to pass the word along, enjoyment of them has spread across the country. The molasses called for in the baked bean dish is unsulphured... the sweet, aromatic kind New Englanders have been using since colonial days.

Here are the steps to make a savory baked bean dish for the family. The canned brown bread may be sliced and served hot or cold.

Baked Beans
(Quick Method)

4 cups (2 lbs.) dried beans
Cold water
1 large onion
4 teaspoons salt
⅔ cup unsulphured molasses
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons dry mustard
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
½ pound salt pork

Wash beans. Cover generously with cold water; soak overnight. Add onion, salt, and if necessary, additional water to cover beans; bring to boiling point in covered saucepan. Remove onion; reserve. Simmer beans until tender. Drain; save 3 cups bean liquid (add additional water to make 3 cups, if necessary). Mix bean liquid with molasses, pepper, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce. Turn beans, onion, and salt pork into large casserole or bean pot. Add liquid mixture. Cover. Bake in moderately slow oven (325°F.) 1¾ hours. Uncover. There's Chicken every Sunday at the Cantors... cooked Electrically!

"Eddie and I agree on almost everything," says Mrs. Cantor (better known as Ida to her husband's fans)—"and we're unanimous about our modern Electric Range. When he sees me put something in the oven, set the controls, and then leave the kitchen, he really opens his eyes. Then I come back, take out the meal all ready to serve, and he says, 'We should live long enough to enjoy a thing like this. It's like magic!'"

You'll agree, too, on the modern Electric Range—the "Range of the Stars." It's so fast, so clean, so economical! Cakes come out perfect, roasts shrink less, the broiler does things to a turn. It's all due to automatic controls, and heat that cooks without flame.
